Born in Jamaica and thriving in Tampa, FL, Trudy Beerman is a force in digital media. A doctoral candidate at Liberty University, her research centers on influential reach—a critical concept for today's experts who want to lead, not follow.

Initially stepping into TV to share her Bible-based strategies, Trudy fell in love with the medium. Today, she is a certified TV Producer, founder of PSI TV, and a pioneer in making TV accessible to authors, business leaders, and knowledge brokers. One client even called her “a contributor to Black Hollywood.”

Trudy builds Netflix-style TV channels and branded mobile apps for visionary brands. As a 50+ minority woman in tech and media, she's proof that reinvention is not just possible—it's powerful.
